

PRACTITIONER

Sharing key learnings from AAEE SA's ABC of BBB grant project

Naomi Findlay, Australian Association for Environmental Education SA Chapter

Abstract

The main objective of the presentation is to share the successes and failures from managing the innovative ABC of BBB grant project:

'Increasing educator engagement in environmental education through curriculum-linked resources for the Bringing Back the Butterflies program, Zoom networking and social media'

The presentation will include elaborate on meeting the project's aims of: attracting educators to AAEE SA, building online professional support networks and supporting early career educators.

The outcomes are:

Provide a model for Zoom networking sessions, which can expand PL to regional areas

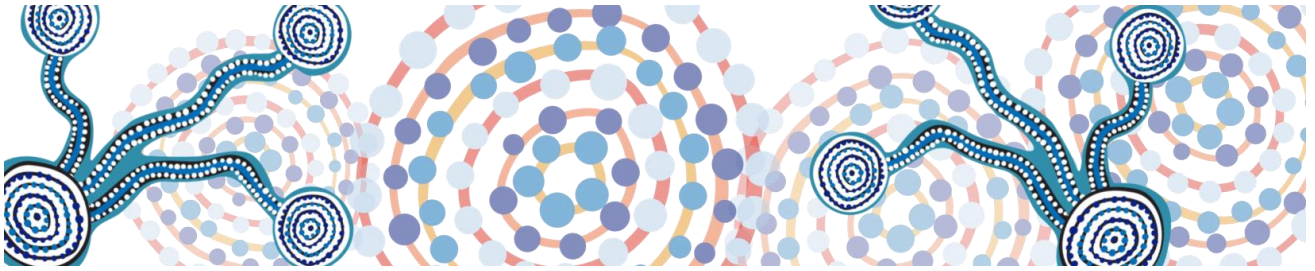

Provide educators with strategies to develop curriculum-linked biodiversity resources incorporating ACARA's CCP of Sustainability in collaboration

Equip educators to use social media/Instagram to attract younger members and early career educators

Inspire educators to apply for innovative grant projects & to engage in conservation action through butterfly gardening

Speaker Profile

Naomi Findlay is an experienced teacher, passionate about the environment and best practice in education for sustainability. She volunteers as the Convenor for the SA Chapter of AAEE. Naomi is a highly skilled and effective education practitioner with experience in diverse cultural and economic settings, and industries across Australia. She currently resides in Adelaide where she teaches at local primary schools, leads school tours at Adelaide Zoo and is studying a Diploma of Sustainable Living through the University of Tasmania.

Acknowledgement

AAEE SA Chapter Executive Committee, Bringing Back the Butterflies (BBB), AAEE SA Volunteer Social Media team, ABC of BBB panel guests

Website links

→ <https://www.linkedin.com/in/naomi-findlay/>

