Presentation Abstract: max. 300 words	In the push towards a Zero Emissions future, schools continue to be important spaces to support the transition. Changes can be seen in the design, infrastructure and planting around schools, in the content and topics being taught and discussed in classrooms, and in how schools function and operate. Sustainability in schools can help prepare and empower our school community with skills and knowledge to act on climate change and prepare and adapt to a changing climate. This presentation will be structured as a Round Table discussion with State and Territory Government representatives from the ACT, NSW and Vic sharing their approaches to sustainability in schools in their jurisdictions. The presentation highlighting the programs and the policies currently in place to assist schools with sustainability activities, to showcase what can be achieved at a school level and to ponder what is next.

Key Message: A short summary of presentation	State and Territory Governments supporting sustainability in schools through programs and policies.
